Statement of Equal Opportunity

The University of Tennessee at Martin is dedicated to the principle that all benefits, privileges and opportunities afforded by the university shall be accorded each person based upon individual merits, accomplishments and needs; and to the promotion of nondiscrimination in every phase of the university's operation and education program. The university is committed to diversity and tolerance, and all members of the university are expected to conduct their relationships with faculty, students and staff in a manner designed to support these principles.

This catalog is not to be construed as a contract. The University of Tennessee at Martin reserves the right to change fees, tuition or other charges; add or delete courses; revise academic programs; or alter regulations and requirements as deemed necessary.
