Continuous

I am currently learning how to use the IPOD as an instructional tool.

I have purchased a new G5 Apple Computer and TV capture equipment.

I have continued to update and expand my PowerPoint programs for the classes I teach and to require students to use the Internet and PowerPoint for research and class presentations.

I have been learning how to use the Apple iMovie program to develop digital presentations for class. I have purchased several hundred dollars worth of computer software and begun to utilize the latest Apple operating system Jaguar which I bought to update to the latest OS operating system. Also, the department chair obtained funding from the college dean for the Apple movie production program FinalCut Pro. I have done some work with the program but it will be a while before I am fully proficient in its use. However, it has great potential as a teaching tool.

I have purchased a good digital camera which will allow me to take pictures of government related activities and enter them directly into my computer images files. Too, I have purchased additional hardware to upgrade my computers such as additional memory and larger hard drives. I am upgrading one of my computers with a faster processor card which cost $200.

I purchased the program Endnotes that I intend to use in my research and writing..
