About WTWP

The West Tennessee Writing Project is for teachers who believe in the power of writing to implement standards across the curriculum. Located in the Department of English at The University of Tennessee at Martin, WTWP is one of 160 sites of the National Writing Project. WTWP was established in March 1993 and currently is the only affiliate site of the National Writing Project in Tennessee.

The purpose of WTWP is to improve writing in our schools. It operates under these principles:

- writing will improve as writing instruction improves
- the best teacher of a teacher is another teacher
- teachers of writing must be writers themselves.

The heart of WTWP is its annual intensive summer writing institutes held on the UT Martin campus for selected West Tennessee teachers, all subject-matter areas, all grades K-12. The institute is offered as a graduate seminar, English 700-701. To receive an application for the 1999 institute, complete the form on the last page of this publication and mail to WTWP.

WTWP extends its work beyond the summer institutes by contracting with area schools and systems for inservice. WTWP Teacher Consultants--the teachers who have participated in annual summer institutes--present interactive demonstrations based on their successful classroom practices that work toward more and better writing.

WTWP further reaches out by offering to all teachers K-12 from all subject matter areas an annual English/language arts workshop held on the UT Martin campus each August. In 1999, the workshop will be held on Saturday August 7, in the newly renovated and expanded University Center at UT Martin. The focus will be: teacher as writer.

WTWP is supported by grants from the National Writing Project, for the last three years by Eisenhower Professional Development Funds, and by matching funds from The University of Tennessee at Martin.
The director of WTWP is Margrethe Ahlschwede (mar-GRAY-da ALL-swede), associate professor of English at UT Martin. Co-directors are Glenda Arant, reading teacher at Martin Middle School, and Mary Lou Marks, librarian at Camden Central High School. WTWP Advisor Council members include the project directors and Pat Johnson, Jackson Trinity Christian Academy; Terrance Beard, Jackson Northeast Middle School; and Paula Cox, Camden Elementary School.

We are honored

Four WTWP Teacher Consultants have completed work for masters degrees in the last year and a half. Kathy Cassety, Pam Sliger, and Mary Jo Connell received their degrees from UT Martin where the intensive summer writing institute was part of their graduate program; and Faye Hardin, Union University.
