| Wednesday | February 23 | 10:00am | Brooke Haycock: Catalyst
An unflinching portrayal of the power of educators to change students’ lives. Following two young men, Carl and Isaiah, Catalyst takes on the tough questions of student engagement, bringing audiences face to face with some of the most devastating—and inspiring—images of student transformation.
Peace and Justice Rally
Plaza between Boling University Center and Paul Meek Library.
1:00pm Brooke Haycock: Dilated Pupils and the Not-So-Soft Bigotry of a Nation
Takes audiences on a whirlwind tour through the school doors, past the metal detectors, and straight into the lives of three high school students. Told from the perspectives of students and the adults in their lives, Dilated Pupils dares audiences to confront the stories of young people hobbled by low expectations.
3:00pm Lessons from the Mountaintop: Civil Rights and Labor Organizing in the South
Black History Month Quiz Bowl
Sponsored by National Association of Black Journalists. |
