Book Walk: Mary Elizabeth, Vickie (aided by daughter Braedyn and friend Addison), Jim, Jayne and Danelle represented Kiwanis at the Weldon Library/Kiwanis Book Walk on Saturday, Oct 20. They were assisting Jenny Claiborne and Jessie Newsome from the Weldon Library. Blake Moore, Martin Parks and Recreation helped move people, tables, and supplies to the craft stations along the walking trail. The children and parents read The Scarecrow's Hat and made a walking stick for the scarecrow. Those who finished received a walking stick they had made and their own straw hat. (You can have the book read to you at youtube.com/watch?v=gA8046V9Ch8) Comment: "That was one smart chicken!"

34 K-Kids met last week and created their own book entitled I Can Help. K-Kids: Young Leaders Helping Others. After listing ways they could help in their home, school, community and world, they proceeded to the stamping table where they created a design of a tree in fall splendor with a rake leaning against it. (Or depending on their creativity -- lying on the ground or flying through air!)

Assistant Police Chief Phillip Fuqua is flanked by Danelle and graduates of the Police Academy at last week's meeting. Phillip told of the evolution in ways to react to crisis situations in our schools and specifically about ALICE — Alert, Lockdown, Inform, Counter, Evaluate. This program was chosen for implementation by the Weakley County Schools, which elated the Martin Police Department.
