The threat of rain could not dampen the enthusiasm of children participating in the Kiwanis Decorated Egg Contest held in conjunction with the annual Parks and Recreation Easter Egg Hunt. Entries included eggs decorated as Mickey Mouse, a scuba diver, President Trump, a pig, a woodland fairy, Spiderman, and more.

Winners in the 5- 7 age were Amelia Walsh, most colorful; Collin Eddlemon, best character; and Corbin Pond, for most unusual.

Winners in the 8-10 age group were Cade Arnold, best celebrity; Caleb Eddlemon, best character; and Corrina Boyd, most unusual.

Others receiving prizes included Mayra Chandler, 12, for most artistic young artist and Braxton Coon, 8, and his brother Braylen, 4, for being “most entertaining” by generously sharing their chocolate lab puppy Miya with other children waiting for their designated hunt time. Cadence Foley, 6, and her brother Ezra, 3, came to the hunt by bicycle in the light rain and arrived too late for the scheduled hunts in their age groups but were not too late to enjoy the Kiwanis Decorated Egg Contest and talk with those who gathered to admire the array of colorful eggs.

Kiwanis members on hand to assist were Mary Elizabeth Bell, Anna Clark, Frank Black, Harry Henderson, and Linda Ramsey. Anita Bell and Abigail prepared the prize baskets.

Westview Key Club members who helped register the children, judge the entries, and assist in presenting the prize baskets were Tania Ramos, Canaan Paschall, and Amy Kang.
