Sharing Memories and Life Stories — Paul Tinkle

Paul Tinkle made connections with Kiwanis members and shared memories of those who have influenced him when he gave a presentation at Kiwanis last week. If he did not know everyone in the room when he arrived, he asked “Who is that?” and knew everyone before he left. He said that he had known Jayne Parrish longer than anyone there and Earl had given him a job when he was in desperate straits as a student. When being interviewed for a position, Earl asked, “Can you keep the men out of the women’s dorms after hours?” Paul also recognized Ned McWherter and his high school English teacher who had given him a helping hand when he needed it. He stressed the importance of saying “thank you” and the importance of writing about how you feel. Two people who influenced him greatly were Alex Haley and Muhammad Ali.

Paul finished with his “Four Ps:” Perfection, Perseverance, Professionalism and Prayer.

February Anniversaries

- Pam Bates.....Feb. 27

February is Pancake Month! These four Cub Scouts were among those serving pancakes, sausage, and beverages at the Cub Scout Pancake Breakfast held Feb. 8 in the Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church in Martin. Barry Tuck is cub master for Pack 37, which has been sponsored by the Martin Kiwanis Club since 1971. Steve Lemond, charter organization representative and assistant cub master, was among Barry Tuck and others present at the breakfast to assist the young scouts.
