“Kiwanis is a global organization of volunteers dedicated to improving the world, one child and one community at a time.”

Today’s Program

Dr. Mary Radford: The Role of Telehealth in the Pandemic

Our May 7, Speaker Piper Black Douglas informed us about palliative and hospice care, their similarities and differences. Both provide comfort to the patient, but normally hospice begins after treatment has stopped, although at times individuals leave hospice in favor of a different or new treatment. As one Kiwanis member said, “Having to go through hospice with a family member recently, it is a very difficult conversation to have, and you have done a tremendous job.”

areas of leadership and service. He is an Eagle Scout, and has worked with Weakley County youth at CE Weldon library, the St. Jude Toy Drive, and West Tennessee Ethics Bowl. He is designing an elementary education curriculum in Geology for the Martin Enrichment Academy and has worked with Habitat for Humanity and the LUNgevity Foundation. He has been a lab instructor for General Chemistry classes, volunteered time and labor to help construct a new courtyard at the Holland McCombs Center and held leadership roles in student organizations. In short, Joseph more than exemplifies the spirit of the award as envisioned by Kiwanis charter member S. K. Airee, the driving force behind this award.

Bryce (right) and Blake Holliman, recent graduates of Greenfield High School, have each received a Christie Ricketts Memorial Kiwanis Scholarship to attend UTM. The $1,000 scholarship, is awarded to a Westview or Greenfield High School senior who has exemplified to the highest degree the basic principles of caring and sharing in the home, school, and community. In addition to having outstanding academic records and numerous hours of community service, both Bryce and Blake have been active in Kiwanis events at the local and district levels and have served as lieutenant governor of Key Clubs in the Louisiana-Mississippi-West Tennessee Kiwanis District. Bryce and Blake were presented certificates at the May 11 Greenfield High School Academic Awards and Scholarship night. Jim Clark substituted for scholarship committee chair Vickie Hazlewood in presenting the certificates.

Social Committee: at the May 7 meeting, President Annie Jones appointed Jayne Parrish, Linda Ramsey, and Anna Clark to a new Social Committee. Note the June 30th item under the Martin Kiwanis Calendar.
