SNYDER RECIEVES THE 2020 MICHELLE HORTON COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD

MARTIN, Tenn. – Cassidy Briggs Snyder, a junior social work major at the UT Martin McNairy County Center/Selmer, was named the recipient of the 2020 Michelle Horton Community Service Award.

The Michelle Horton Service Award honors students in the Department of Behavioral Sciences who make significant contributions to their community through acts of service. To be eligible, students must serve a minimum of 20 service hours. Snyder, of Corinth, Miss., volunteered with Corinth’s Whitefield Nursing Home, Cornerstone Rehabilitation and Healthcare Center, The Lighthouse Foundation and Calvary Baptist Church.

“I nominated Cassidy for this award because of the sustained and selfless volunteer work she performs in her community,” Shelby East, lecturer of social work, wrote in Snyder’s nomination material. “I was impressed with her ongoing initiative, leadership and dedication in the social work program. I believe she will excel in her career as a social worker.”
